DETAILED ACTION

Application Status

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on February 16, 2007 has been entered.
2. Applicant's response to the Office Action mailed November 13, 2006 on February 16, 2007 is acknowledged.

Claim Disposition

3. Claims 1-19 are pending. Claims 1-2 and 7-19 are under examination.

Withdrawn- Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

4. Previous rejection to the claims under 35 U.S.C. 101 is withdrawn by virtue of submission of an amendment.

Maintained-Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

5. Claims 1-2 and 7-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The claimed invention is directed to a recombinant polyketide synthase gene and host cell comprising same. The claims are described by functional properties, not by structural properties per se. It is noted that the specification provides specific sequences, however, none is recited in the claims. For example, claim 2 recites ccr and icm genes and the claim does not set forth whether the ccr gene is derived from Streptomyces collinus or Streptomyces coelicolor for example, or provide a structure that corresponds to the genes. In addition, the art recognizes icmA and icmB, however, the claims do not delineate the specific gene referred to. Therefore, the skilled artisan cannot envision the detailed chemical structure encompassed in the claims.

An applicant shows possession of the claimed invention by describing the claimed invention with all of its limitations using such descriptive means as words, structures, figures, diagrams, and formulas that fully set forth the claimed invention. See Lockwood v. American Airlines, Inc., 107 F.3d 1565, 1572, 41 USPQ2d 1961, 1966 (Fed. Cir.1997). Therefore, a biomolecule sequence described only by a functional characteristic, without any known or disclosed correlation between that function and the structure of the sequence, normally is not a sufficient identifying characteristic for written description purposes, even when accompanied by a method of obtaining the claimed sequence. For example, even though a genetic code table would correlate a known amino acid sequence with a genus of coding nucleic acids, the same table cannot predict the native, naturally occurring nucleic acid sequence of a naturally occurring mRNA or its corresponding cDNA. See MPEP 2163.

Therefore, for all these reasons the specification lacks adequate written description, and one of skill in the art cannot reasonably conclude that the applicant had possession of the claimed invention at the time the instant application was filed.

Response to Arguments

6. The response filed has been considered, however, is not fully persuasive. With regard to the rejection under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, Applicant state that what is well known in the art doesn't need to be recited in the claim. Applicant provided several references, which have been considered, however, are not persuasive. Applicant needs to provide the structure for the specifically claimed invention, otherwise applicant's statements could be construed as admitted prior art. At present the claims read on a genus of polyketides and the instant specification discloses a sequence for the specific ones, which is not recited in the claims. Thus, the claimed invention lacks adequate written description for the genus encompassed in the claims. Therefore, the rejection remains.

Conclusion

7. No claims are allowable.

Art Unit: 1652

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new/modified ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
